This list includes the selected relevant agencies and other named organisations and agencies. Other organisations and agencies with responsibilities for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children who are not listed will still have a responsibility for working under the auspices of the Children’s MARS Local Arrangements.

Appendix 2: Agencies and Organisations with a duty under Section 11 of the Children Act 2004

Section 11 of the Children Act 2004, places duties on a range of organisations, agencies and individuals to ensure their functions, and any services that they contract out to others, are discharged having regard to the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of children.

From a local perspective, Section 11 places a duty on:

- North Lincolnshire Council including children's and other types of services - children's and adult social care services, youth offending service, public health, housing, sport, culture and leisure services, licensing authorities and youth services
- Integrated Care Boards and General Practitioners
- NHS England North (Yorkshire and Humber)
- Independent health sector, i.e. other independent health providers which includes HCRG Care Group and Savoy Ventures
- Northern Lincolnshire and Goole Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust
- Rotherham, Doncaster and South Humber NHS Foundation Trust
- East Midlands Ambulance Service NHS Trust
- Humberside Police and the Humberside Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner
- British Transport Police
- Probation Service (Yorkshire and the Humber)

These organisations and agencies should have in place arrangements that reflect the importance of safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children, including:

- a clear line of accountability for the commissioning and/or provision of services designed to safeguard and promote the welfare of children
- a senior board level lead with the required knowledge, skills and expertise or sufficiently qualified and experienced to take leadership responsibility for the organisations or agencies safeguarding arrangements
- a culture of listening to children and taking account of their wishes and feelings both in individual decisions and the development of services
- clear whistleblowing procedures, which reflect the principles in Sir Robert Francis' Freedom to Speak Up Review and are suitably referenced in staff training and codes of conduct, and a culture that enables issues about safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children to be addressed
- clear escalation policies for staff to follow when their child safeguarding concerns are not being addressed within their organisation or by other agencies
- arrangements which out clearly the processes for sharing information, with other practitioners and safeguarding partners
- a designated practitioner (or, for health commissioning and health provider organisations/agencies, designated and named practitioner) for child safeguarding. Their role is to support other practitioners in their organisations and agencies to recognise the needs of children, including protection from possible abuse or neglect. Designated practitioner roles should always be explicitly defined in job descriptions. Practitioners should be given sufficient time, funding, supervision and support to fulfil their child welfare and safeguarding responsibilities effectively

- safe recruitment processes and ongoing safe working practices for individuals whom the organisation or agency permit to work regularly with children, including policies on when to obtain a criminal record check
- appropriate supervision and support for staff, including undertaking safeguarding training
- creating a culture of safety, equality and protection within the services they provide

In addition:

- employers are responsible for ensuring that their staff are competent to carry out their responsibilities for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and creating an environment where staff feel able to raise concerns and feel supported in their safeguarding role
- staff should be given a mandatory induction, which includes familiarisation with child protection responsibilities and the procedures to be followed if anyone has any concerns about a child's safety or welfare
- all practitioners should have regular reviews of their own practice to ensure they have knowledge, skills and expertise that improve over time

Section 11 organisations and agencies are subject to our Children's MARS Board Scrutiny and Assurance Framework. See section 5.

Note - other organisations, agencies and individuals have a duty under Section 11, though these are not applicable within this area as they are not evident within the local footprint e.g. Directors of Secure Training Centres.

In addition to these Section 11 duties, which apply to a number of named organisations and agencies (named above), further safeguarding duties are also placed on individual organisations and agencies through other statutes.

Further details regarding the role and responsibilities of local safeguarding partners are articulated in the Children's MARS Board Memorandum of Understanding.
